The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE FRESH CRISIS in the Russo-Polish dispute is a sharp reminder that both our own country and Britain are rapidly approaching the point where they've got to make up their minds—if indeed they haven't already done so—how far they want to go in trying to force their ideas and ideals on their Russian ally in the matter of the several territorial arguments in which Moscow is involved.

In reaching our decisions we have to bear well in mind two highly important things:

1. Our ideas and ideals don't necessarily coincide with those of Russia in all respects. What's wrong to us may seem right to the Soviet—and who's arbiter of that?

Moscow is sternly realistic—a characteristic which stood out in the recent conferences of the Big Three. It wasn't without reason that Lenin gave his disciple Vissarionovich Dragashvili the name of Stalin, which means "steel man."

2. The consensus of Allied leaders is that not only the winning of this war but the maintenance of peace afterwards depends on the continuation of close cooperation among the Big Three. Any rupture of this combination would be the prelude to another world conflict.

It's under these delicate circumstances that the American government has advised Moscow of its willingness to work for the restoration of amicable relations between the Soviet Union and Poland. In this, the Secretary of State has said Washington is hopeful that such relations may be resumed.

This doesn't mean that the United States has offered to mediate the territorial dispute. Any mediation must follow resumption of diplomatic relations between Moscow and the Polish government in exile, and it is with restoration of amity that Secretary Hull is concerned at the moment.

IF AND WHEN diplomatic relations are resumed there will come the effort to reconcile the widely divergent claims. Should the Poles agree to Russian absorption of the zone in question, and recompense themselves by annexing German territory as is suggested by Moscow, then all will be well. But supposing both sides stand pat?

The answer obviously is that Russia will take back this territory, which she claims on the grounds that it really is part of the Soviet Union and that she possessed it when the Poles acquired it after the last war. Russia will pursue this course because the Poles are in-

Churchill Makes Unexpected Return Trip To London Today

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Jan. 18.—Prime Minister Churchill returned to London unexpectedly today after convalescing from an attack of pneumonia in the Middle East and told a cheering house of commons he expected to make a statement on the war in the near future.

The prime minister, who looked slightly tired but happy, asked the house that he be given "some latitude" about the actual date for discussing the war, indicating he planned a careful summary of events in prelude to western invasion of Europe.

As for himself, when asked by a member what steps he was taking to relieve himself of some of his official duties to conserve his health, Churchill replied amid laughter: "I am obliged to you for your solicitude, but I have no changes to propose at present in my routine."

Churchill again drew laughter when he demurred at Commr. Oliver Locker-Lampson's proposal that "we go off and drink this toast: 'Death to all dictators, and long life to all liberators.'"

"It is very early in the morning," Churchill chuckled.

Sir Herbert Williams asked if Churchill were aware of any "false optimism" voiced in a recent speech in which Sen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery indicated the probable early capture of Rome.

"I don't know about false optimism," Churchill replied. "There has been a lot of bad weather."

One of Churchill's first visitors is expected to be Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander for western invasion. The prime minister is reported anxious to have the latest confidential developments as the "zero hour" approaches.

The prime minister, back in Britain for the first time in ten weeks—since he left Britain for his epochal conferences with President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek—arrived in London about 10 a. m. (3 a. m. Eastern War Time) after a journey from North Africa, and was immediately taken to the house of commons, which reassembled after its holiday recess.

ALLIES CHALK UP NEW LOSSES FOR JAPANESE

Nipponese Come Out Second Best In Southwest Pacific Attacks

(By Associated Press) Japanese losses in planes and ships continued to mount as the hard-pressed Nipponese traded sharp aerial punches with the Allies in Southwest Pacific aerial warfare. American P-40 fighters shot down 18 and probably 20 enemy planes which attempted to deliver the heaviest attack on Sador, allied coastal gateway to northern New Guinea, since U. S. Sixth army units landed there Jan. 2.

Liberators and Mitchells unloaded 87 tons of bombs on Japanese defensive facilities at Arawe, southwest New Britain, while South Pacific fliers pounced again on Rabaul, big enemy base on the island's northeast tip.

Attack Jap Convoy Allied patrol members sank a 10,000-ton vessel and left fires raging on two merchantmen in a six-ship Japanese convoy off Kavieng, New Ireland.

A Japanese small cargo ship was sunk and three others damaged by U. S. army and navy bombers in raids on the Marshall Islands. The enemy's interception was described as the strongest yet encountered in that area.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, whose central Pacific forces placed the Gilbert Islands under American control, declared in a Pearl Harbor radio broadcast last night American land, sea and air units are "flushed into a deadly, disciplined fighting team."

"The Japs are thoroughly entrenched in island archipelagos that remain to them in the Pacific," he said. "They are a vicious and resourceful foe. But we will smoke them out, at times and places chosen by ourselves."

PLEAD INNOCENT IN LORAIN CASE

LORAIN, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Russell King, 38, and William J. Esser, 47, pleaded innocent when arraigned today before Municipal Judge Malcolm Thomson on charges of assault with intent to maim resulting from an attack upon Cecil B. Dalton, 33, of nearby Sheffield lake.

Mrs. King, a housewife, was released immediately under $1,000 bond. Esser, a postal letter carrier foreman who had been under treatment for nervous collapse, was expected to provide similar bond.

Arrested on warrants based on affidavits from Dalton, their hearings were set for Jan. 25.

Four men, including Police Officer Frank Eiden and three postal letter carriers, already have pleaded innocent to similar charges and are at liberty on $1,000 bonds pending hearings Jan. 25.

The three carriers, George J. Reibel, 46; Joseph S. Hazard, 39; and James Donatucci, 22, were suspended from postal service yesterday by District Inspector S. R. Kelchner of Sandusky. Eiden, a police officer for 11 years, was discharged from the force a short time after his arraignment.

City Prosecutor John D. Pincura said Dalton reported he was attacked by five men last Saturday night, beaten with a blackjack and forced to sign a statement admitting he "phoned a Lorain housewife and that 'my intentions were dishonorable'."

Mrs. King walked into police headquarters late yesterday with her husband, asserting "I am giving myself up. The entire story isn't known yet, but when it is, it will appear in a very different light."

Question Of Government Or People's Rule, Bricker Says

(By Associated Press) DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 18.—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio says Americans must decide now "to take this government of ours into our own hands" after the war.

"Either people will control their government or government will control them," the candidate for the Republican presidential nomination said last night at the conclusion of a three-day tour of Texas.

"The most distressing aspect of our American life today," he continued, "is to hear people wonder if we will ever get away from this constant domination of our daily lives; from the restrictions we undergo; from the rationings that have been imposed and from the constant interruptions of our business life by federal bureaus requiring reports and inspections."

"The time has come for the patriotic American citizen to say to his government that when the war is won, America again will be set free, and we'll take this government of ours into our own hands."

Bricker charged that the federal government attempted to usurp state and local authority by dispensation of federal funds. He asserted the administration skirted state authority and went directly to the individual in its distribution of relief funds.

"Federal bureaus have even attempted to fine states for violation of rules and regulations which the congress of the United States never enacted," he said, and told how the Agricultural Adjustment agency attempted to penalize Ohio because the state disregarded an order limiting the acreage farmed by Ohio public welfare institutions.

"We told them to go ahead and see if they could collect the fine. They have not yet collected the money," Bricker related.

ADVANCE FIRST AID CLASS IS PLANNED

An advanced first aid class will be given by the Red Cross, officials announced today, as soon as enrollment is completed. Persons who have taken the elementary Red Cross first aid study are eligible for the advanced class.

Chapter workers are anxious for a large enrollment in the new group which later will be given the instructors' course by a national field representative, if the number of successful advance students warrants the study.

Registration of advanced students may be made with the Red Cross office, phone 5219, from 9 to 5 p. m. any week day.

Palestine Council Cuts Industrial Power Rates

EAST PALESTINE, Jan. 18.—City council Monday night passed an ordinance reducing the industrial electric power rates from 1 1/2 to 1 1/4 cents per kilowatt hour, giving East Palestine one of the lowest electric rates in the state.

Service Director Elmer Dishong explained that the reduction in the industrial bracket would mean approximately $245 less revenue for the plant. The new rate, effective for the February collections, is available to industries using 20,000 kilowatts or more.

4th War Loan Drive Opened By Volunteers

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Five million volunteers began the job today of putting over the tough part of the Treasury's $14,000,000,000 Fourth War loan—raising $5,500,000,000 in cash among individual Americans.

For two weeks they'll concentrate on that phase of the campaign. Then the insurance companies, big business firms and savings banks will come into the picture.

Last night in a special broadcast, marking the beginning of the drive, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, speaking from London, said: "We are going to hit the enemy and hit him again until the last measure of Nazi resistance is crushed to beaten earth."

"Military defeat," he added, "is the only logic a Nazi understands." And from Honolulu, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, declared: "That although the Japanese are thoroughly entrenched in the Pacific islands, 'we will smoke them out at a time and place chosen by ourselves.' He urged Americans to 'guarantee success of the offensive with the continued purchase of War bonds.'"

'PEACE' RUMOR IRKS BRITISH

London Press Indignant Over Story Released By Communist Paper

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Jan. 18.—The British press minced no words today in expressing indignation over Pravda's publication of a British-German "separate peace" talk rumor, the London Daily Mail denouncing it as insulting and the Manchester Guardian calling it a "slandorous accusation."

The morning papers generally displayed the story on their front pages, emphasizing the British foreign office had issued a flat denial of the truth of the report printed in Moscow by the Communist party organ. Not one London afternoon paper published the Moscow story yesterday, although there was no censorship ban.

In absence of any official Moscow explanation, and in view of wide circulation given the report yesterday by the Moscow radio, the Daily Mail said the British government "may deem it necessary in the near future to reassert in common their determination to abide by their agreements never to make a separate peace."

Spain Denies Conference

An Associated Press dispatch from Madrid, said authorized Spanish sources denied Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop had been in Spain, and that Ribbentrop had discussed peace with two British officials on the "Punentes peninsula" as ridiculous.

From Lisbon, similarly, an Associated Press dispatch quoted British, Greek and Yugoslav sources as disclaiming any information of the rumored peace talks.

The Daily Mail commented, "The Turn to PEACE RUMOR, Page 8."

Alliance Couple Is Held In $3,700 Tavern Theft

SEBRING, Jan. 18.—Joseph Sydor, 25, and his wife, Mary, 21, of R. D. 4, Alliance, are held under a bond for appearance before the Mahoning county grand jury on charges of breaking and entering and receiving stolen property.

The couple, under bonds of $10,000 and $5,000, were held after they pleaded guilty to the charges in connection with an East Alliance tavern robbery Nov. 14. Deputy Sheriff Wilbur Parr, who investigated, said a 16-year-old youth also was involved.

The trio, Parr said, stole a safe containing $3,700 in money and bonds.

Vatutin's Ukraine Army Gains; Leningrad Offensive Also Clicks

By HENRY C. CASSIDY MOSCOW, Jan. 18.—Troops of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian army were reported closing in today on Rovno (in old Poland), key German communications center 110 miles south of Pinsk, another main objective of Vatutin's forces on the northern edge of the frozen Pripiet marshes.

Fell of Rovno, junction of the Berdichev-Warsaw and Sarny-Lwow railways, inevitably would imperil German grip on a vast area of southern and southwestern Russia, already threatened by Vatutin's left wing driving toward the Rumanian frontier.

Vatutin's center, based on Novograd Volynski, 50 miles east of Rovno, was driving on the rail hub from the east, northeast and north, constituting a triple threat which made early capture possible. One column already has occupied Tuchin, 13 miles northeast, and is beating down savage enemy resistance, a Russian communique said.

Attempt River Crossing

Soviet engineers were called in to provide equipment for crossing of the Horyn river, which flows westward through Tuchin's outskirts, and which has not frozen sufficiently for transport on the ice.

The five-day-old Russian offensive on the Leningrad front, meanwhile, continued to roll forward.

"The German high command said the Russians were attacking north and northwest of Nevel, north of Lake Ilmen, south of Leningrad and south of Oranienbaum, with 'growing intensity.'"

Berlin broadcasts said the Red army was using 250,000 men on a 250-mile-long front below Leningrad and acknowledged Russian breakthroughs.

The Red army communique made no mention of the situation in lower White Russia.

In the lower Ukraine, Vatutin's left wing repulsed fierce German counter-attacks yesterday, the Soviet bulletin said. Main fighting centered north of Uman 90 miles southeast of Vinnitsa.

E. Liverpool Gunner On Fortress Shoots Down German Plane

(By Associated Press) A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, Jan. 18.—Two Ohioans downed four Nazi fighter planes in one of the greatest aerial battles of the war and reached their base although 250 bullet holes riddled their Flying Fortress and knocked two engines out of commission.

Sgt. Casmer W. Lekowski of Peninsula (Summit county), O., top turret gunner on the "Spirit of 44," claimed destruction of three enemy aircraft during last week's raid over Oeschersleben and Sgt. James E. Purton of East Liverpool, O., claimed one. The entire crew said it shot down a total of 10 Nazi planes. The air ministry said 152 enemy fighters were accounted for in the raid.

Lieut. Eldridge V. Greer of Houston, Tex., pilot of the "Spirit of 44," said the big craft roared down the main streets of German towns using trees as a cover from pursuing enemy fighters and crossed the coast so low "the flak towers had to shoot down on us."

Pierced like a sieve, the "Spirit" landed with its nose shot away, a 16-inch hole in its radio room, the bomb bay doors partly opened, and minus two engines and its oxygen system.

The crew, however, was uninjured.

APROPOS OF WHAT SOLDIERS THINK

Congressional concern has been expressed over what United States service voters will think if ballots for the presidential election in 1944 do not reach them in whatever form the speaker happens to favor.

Apropos of what service people are going to think, perhaps the best guess is that they don't give two whoops and a holler about the hair-splitting that is preoccupying congress on the score of soldier voting. If they hear about it in some of the hot cold spots and the cold hot spots they are holding down, it must make them wish they could spare the time to argue endlessly about something that should have been settled months ago.

What service voters have a right to think is that if congress gets so preoccupied with partisan politics and ballot greed that it can't muster the collective intelligence to figure out a way to get ballots into their hands constitutionally there is something wrong with congress. Judged by the things being said in debate, it's time for the debaters to quit worrying about themselves and begin worrying about the men overseas who are supposed to be the beneficiaries of whatever plan is devised to distribute ballots among the military forces.

NO LETUP

War production board has made what looks like one of its major policy decisions by blocking large-scale resumption of civilian goods production, regardless of availability of material. The decision grew out of the question of what to do about steel, no longer in the shortage class.

However, reasons WPB, if civilian goods production were permitted because steel is available, there would be an accompanying demand for coal, petroleum, packaging paper and transportation—all in the acute shortage class. This is sound enough for immediate purposes of conserving the other materials affected, but it remains now to be seen what bearing such a decision may have on the ultimate problem of when to resume civilian goods production.

There will come a time when those goods will have to be produced not as a matter of privilege, but necessity. Apparently, WPB believes that time is not here yet.

SERVING THE PEOPLE

The unmistakably clear statement by the war department for guidance of personnel charged with furnishing information to the army, that "the army is serving the people, not expecting to dominate them," is a bell ringer for common sense. There is reason for unlimited hope in the influence of the men who have served the nation in this war if they use it in the years to come as citizens within the democracy.

Their hard contact with reality in their wartime experiences will help them to do something Americans have not been doing too well in recent years—to see through the superficialities to the fundamental things that count. The pride they will take in citizenship that has been earned by sacrifice, not merely bestowed by birth or obtained by legal process will keep them alert to its responsibilities. Having seen enough of other parts of the world to make direct comparisons, they will appreciate their heritage.

As is customary, for obscure reasons, some Americans already are worrying about the impact of upward of 10,000,000 citizens who have performed military service. The impact is something to think about, to be sure, but not to worry about. If the 10,000,000 haven't learned by their war experience what kind of an America is worth saving, then their efforts are being wasted and they might as well take up tating.

OLD FAITHFUL

Now there reappears on the stage, to loom over the tax issue, that old friend of the debaters on tax policy—the federal sales tax.

It has been used and abused more than any other tax known to man, though it never has been adopted and isn't likely to be adopted in the foreseeable future. There probably has been more discussion about it than there has been about the tariff, but things never passed beyond the discussion stage.

At the drop of a hat, experts will come running from all directions to testify that it is the greatest or the most iniquitous idea ever conceived by statesmen or knaves, as the case may be. They even can tell to a penny how much it will and will not produce in the way of revenue.

Congressmen have built careers on little more than opposition to it, and others are within striking distance of fame for their support of the same thing. It has filled the pages of the Congressional Record and, if their statements are credible, has filled the mail of congressmen for to these many years. A federal sales tax is Old Faithful in the field of public proposals that never get adopted—always good for one more rise, but nothing ever comes of it.

LIVE-AND-LEARN ITEM

In the course of trying to live and learn, many newspaper readers have learned to rely on Mrs. Roosevelt, who frequently knows which way the wind is blowing and says so in her column.

Thus, we may learn that Mrs. Roosevelt, no doubt setting a good example, has bought some Christmas presents already, which is something to think about. But in the same column we find this even more remarkable bit of information: "The more I go over the President's message, the more I realize that this is a restatement in more concrete terms, as far as the second bill of rights goes, of the objectives for our nation which we have been striving for since 1933."

The "we" must refer to New Dealers, because it certainly can't refer to all of us. And isn't it helpful to know so far in advance that Mr. Roosevelt really was kidding when he said old Doc New Deal had been taken off the case and old Doc Win The War is in full charge now? Apparently, that ain't the way Mrs. Roosevelt heard it.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, January 19

OPERATIONS of major significance, with continued opportunity for attaining productive, progressive and pleasant aspirations and ambitions are still the vividly engrossing topic, with much of an exceptional importance to challenge the resources, talents and above all good common sense, since there is a menace of sudden nature to undermine, hinder, or defeat the attained gain by reckless and high-handed activities, inciting to antagonism, quarrels and other definite opposition from desirable vantage points. Emotional, unreasonable and impetuous conduct would precipitate much loss, while friendliness, compromise and resort to social congeniality would offset threatened dangers.

Year of Importance

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared to meet a year of outstanding importance in bringing to them promotion, progress, honors and ambitious achievements, with much joy and gratification in accomplished hopes and wishes. It is a time for moving with keen and powerful resources to high goals, but with logic, sound plans and purpose, with wit, sagacity and vision, and not through excessive zeal or strenuous emotional urges, which are destined to aggravate those in place and power to resentment, antagonism or other gestures of opposition. Restraint of impulses, erratic outbursts or other rash indulgences, would be detrimental. Placate, compromise and sociability might offset powerful explosions or determined aggression. Maintain calm and be sensible in crises.

A child born on this day will be endowed with rich abilities and talents for exceptional success and happiness in life, with prestige and honors. It might profit by early training and discipline in self-restraint and emotional control.

We have built and are still building the greatest sea-air power in history. No other nation on earth could have come within a fraction of last year's accomplishments in terms of time, quantity, and quality. —Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal.

Gland Treatment Is Discussed

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

AN acquaintance stopped me on the street to tell me he did not agree with my remarks about the limited usefulness of the ductless gland extracts in the treatment of

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

abnormal children. He has a child that has been under endocrine treatment for four years and is showing quite a little improvement. He says it takes time for these gland extracts to work. The first three years his child was under treatment there wasn't any improvement at all, but during the last year it was marked. When I asked him whether that might not be due to natural growth and maturity, he was sure it wasn't.

I turn for support of my views to the article on ductless gland therapy in the very latest text book of medicine to be published. Different authors write the various chapters, so one may be assured that the man who wrote this one is the best and most experienced in his field.

Three Groups of Patients

Under the heading "What Isn't Endocrinology?" he says there are three groups of patients, often brought to the endocrinologist who should never be accepted by him and for whom he can do nothing. First comes the fat boy who is slightly late in development. This patient nine times out of ten is labelled with the endocrine disorder known as Frolich's syndrome, whereas he is just a fat boy, whatever that is. If left alone he will develop normally and cease to be fat after puberty.

Second is the child who does not do well in school. There is a feeling among would-be progressive educators that such a situation demands a survey by an endocrinologist. There is only one endocrine abnormality which leads to mental retardation and that is cretinism, or congenital absence of the thyroid gland. This will respond to thyroid feeding, but to be successful it has to be done during the first few weeks or months of life. And obviously the diagnosis can not be made at this period on the basis of mental retardation because the baby hasn't enough mental life to evaluate clinically.

Delay Is Fatal

And if the parents and doctor wait until the full-blown picture of cretinism develops—the frog baby, with heavy countenance, protruding lips, thick skin, lack of growth, pot belly, insecure posture, delayed dentation and sluggish reactions—it is too late for thyroid; the damage is done.

The condition should be spotted by the obstetrician or pediatrician during the first weeks of life. One hint for diagnosis is a persistent navel hernia.

Third, loss of hair, whether it be plain baldness or the spotty loss of hair known as alopecia areata. The ductless glands have something to do with certain kinds of hair, but these are cases where the hair never appears, or appears too soon or there is too much hair in the wrong place. They have nothing to do with loss of hair. A bald man will get just as much good from ductless gland treatments as he will from a barber rubbing snake oil in his scalp—which in both instances is no good at all.

Chicken With Two Left Wings To Serve Science

LOS ANGELES—"Lucky Pete," a four-month-old Rhode Island red rooster, left his cozy chicken coop today to become a martyr to science.

"Lucky Pete" made the trip to a science laboratory instead of the frying pan because he happened to be born with both wings on the left side of his body.

His left wing is in the normal position, but his "right" wing grew out under his left breast.

The science department of the University of Southern California was interested in this phenomenon, so "Pete's" owners, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lee Ginn, said they'd forsake their chicken dinner for the cause of science.

"THAT KEITH WOMAN"

by PHYLLIS MOORE GALLAGHER

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO
I phoned Pamela again, disguising my voice through my handkerchief when Reginald answered. He didn't recognize my voice either;
I wasn't prepared to hear me on the phone when fifteen minutes later I had phoned, ostensibly in Philly. I guess Pam was tired when she realized I was in Washington, but she seemed at first when I told her I'd explain everything and give her the money she'd need to get out of the minutes or so. She was ready to go. I told her to bring the red with her over the hotel lawn
to the drugstore. When I saw her in the garden I picked up. It couldn't be traced and I didn't look like a premeditated murderer. And so I killed Pamela about parley, forgetting about the clock in my hurry. I went back to my car, garaged it in Baltimore, took a plane from there to Philadelphia. There wasn't a slipper anywhere, and I must have left it in the car. There was no one on the plane except my gloves, and I carefully wrapped in a paper and shot down my back in Philadelphia. I slipped to my hotel unnoticed, got into my pajamas and robe, and went down the hall to the elevator.
There was a sleepy Negro on the elevator. I told him my telephone was out of order, which was true.
I tampered with it before leaving Washington. And I told him I was sick and couldn't make it, so I put in a long distance call.
I asked him to send someone up to my phone immediately. Then I rings into the phone booth as if I called Washington. But I called my doctor instead, told him I was sick. He came over promptly, gave me another prescription and said my temperature was early 103 then; my inner excitement must have resembled the flu,
telling the doctor my telephone had been out of order all evening and that I'd had to call him from the booth and to please the desk clerk to have someone call it for me. I knew the elevator boy forgot it. He did, and the elevator man had just finished his job when Letty called me and said
Pamela had been murdered.
"That alibi buildup seemed foolproof, didn't it, Hornblower? You checked my movements; everything was in order, wasn't it?"
"Right," conceded Hornblower.
"I killed Reginald," Luke went on, "because I overheard his conversation with Letty. I was afraid he might eventually remember the similarity of that voice which tricked him. He was asleep when I was naked except for a pair of gloves which accounts for the blood on any of my clothes. I took those gloves from Sandra's closet, knowing Victor Corliss had given them to her. I chucked them into the incinerator, hoping they'd be burned before they were found—but they weren't. I didn't want someone else to pay for what I'd done; really I didn't."
"I pushed Marcella off the roof,
having asked her to meet me there.
I told her I had something important to tell her about her boyfriend. I had to kill her because,
cutting across the lawn to my car
after murdering Pamela, I happened to glance toward the lobby windows. Marcella was talking with Victor Corliss. I didn't know she knew anyone connected with Pamela and the more I brooded about that, and the possibility of Mar-cella having overheard my conversation with Pamela—I was certain I had to kill her. But I didn't want to. It was a case of panic.

"I tried to kill Letty. I saw her snooping around those rocks on the hotel lawn. She almost caught me going through that library secretary the morning I arrived at the Keith house, but I heard her in time. Later I found the stock, almost tore the secretary to pieces doing it—and I buried the stock in the incinerator. Letty found a red feather beside that secretary and thought it was a clue. The officer saw her pick it up and was amused. It was a broken stub of the quill pen and he'd thrown it on the floor. He told me all about it. He thought Letty was dumb, but I knew different. She might become dangerous—and she did.
Well, that's all," he finished. "That's everything."
I looked up at Peter Gibson. He was no longer sitting beside my bed. He was leaning against the mantel, arm stretched out along the black marble surface. Then he stiffened, and I did, too, as we heard Hornblower ask Pines why Pamela had given him a check for $25,000.
Pines said furiously, "I suppose
I might as well tell I wasn't black-mailing her. I knew Pamela once—too well. She eloped less than a year before she did the same with Courtney. Everything was kept secret. We had a son. He died—last winter. I loved that boy—and she hated him. He lived with me and Pamela contributed a little here and there to his support. When Sonny was ill I asked for money to give him proper medical care. She turned me down flat. I hated Pam by then and told her I was going to expose our past to certain parties.
"Wayne Courtney was back then
and she didn't want him to know about us, so she offered me $25,000.
I accepted. Lord knows how Reginald found out about Pamela and me. But he did . . . and he was blackmailing Pamela. Made her take him on as butler. I guess he got scared and was going to shake down Gladys and clear out. Something like that."
Peter went over and closed the door. "What people!" he exclaimed softly; then, after a thoughtful interim, he asked, "Letty, why do you suppose Marcella Kingsley charged that call to Dr. Courtney's room—106-A?"
"I don't know," I said. "Not for sure, but there is one explanation.
You see, if any calls are made and not charged to a guest, the operators have to make up the difference out of their own pockets." Peter opened the door again. We heard Vic Corliss saying: "Yes, sir,
I was the one who attacked Letty
before the murder—one the estate.
I wanted to look in the windows and see if dinner was over—and she followed me. I didn't know who it was. I thought it was a burglar until I felt all the lace in my hands. Then I pushed her away—and she ran. Afterwards I went up to the hotel and got a drink. When I came back, thinking to go to the house and ask for Mrs. Keith, I found her murdered."

"You knew Marcella Kingsley?" Hornblower asked.
Vic said: "I met her one night after Mrs. Keith had told me to go out of Sandra's life and stay out.
We were on a party. I hardly recognized her the night she spoke to me in the lobby."
Peter closed the door again, and lit a cigarette thoughtfully. "Who attacked you in the basement at the Keith house, Letty?"
"It must have been Reginald. He probably forgot something, came back for it—and found me in his room."
And then I added: "Peter, remember me saying I thought Pamela had selected an odd group for her party? Well, it does make sense now, when you think about it.
Pines was there so she could give him the money when Luke brought
it. Gladys was there so she could be told that Luke was back in circulation, which would make Gladys not say nasty things about Pam to Wayne. Pam feared gossip.
That's why she must have invited the Eustaces. Wayne liked them a lot—and she wanted to butter them into friendliness. And Courtney Pamella was probably invited for the simple reason that Pam wanted
her around—like me."
And after a long breath: "Want to know why I settled on Luke as the murderer?"
"I certainly do," said Peter.
"Well, first, Pamela was killed
with one terrific blow, and Reginald's head was pummeled. I thought:
The murderer is losing his nerve or his strength or something . . .
and losing strength made me think of Luke Cramer being ill. Then last night when the lights went out and Sergeant Hornblower herded us all into the dining room, I got to remembering Pamela's dinner. That she'd expected Luke—but not for dinner! Though I didn't notice it particularly at the time, there was no vacant place at the table and no hostess had a guest's plate removed unless she had definite word that that guest is NOT coming. And if Luke was coming and hadn't been invited to dinner . . . Well, that made me know something was wrong between Pamela and Luke.
Then there was Dr. Courtney at the head of the table, like the master of the house, where Luke always sat. . . . So I surmised Luke had broken with Pam and eventually I decided that he was her murderer."
Peter came over and sat down on the bed beside me. "I'm going to settle that inheritance business out of court, Letty," he said gently.

"No one will know Sandra Keith isn't the real Sandra Keith, except a few. And they won't talk. They all have too much on each other.
Letty, I'm going to be a very happy man, most definitely eligible."
"And smart, too," I added.
Peter lifted his hand as if to smack me but the telephone rang shrilly and Peter picked it up. "For you," he said.
Clem Barkley's voice was excited.
"Letty," he said. "Anything unusual going on over there? I see the place all lit up. I'm at the hotel."
"A little something happened," I said, and told him all—or nearly all.
"My stars!" groaned Clem. "Good grief, Letty! All that news broke over there and you didn't once think of the paper! Suppose I hadn't called you?"
"Am I—fired?" I asked tremulously; but there was no answer.
Clem had hung up—and those long
Gibson arms were around me.
"Never mind, sweet," consoled Peter. "I don't want my wife working anyway. I want her near my camp."
"Camp?" I gulped.
"I volunteered yesterday. I'm to report to Camp Lee next week."
"Oh!" I exclaimed, and before I could utter another word Peter observed: "That makes your mouth
just right for a kiss."
And he promptly and completely demonstrated the truth of his observation.
(THE END)

Seabee In Pacific 'Hears from Home'

LANSING, Mich.—The mail must go through!
So when the secretary of state's office mailed L. R. Hartinez, Detroit, a routine notice that his driver's license "would expire in 30 days," it followed him 7,000 miles to the Southwest Pacific, where he is stationed with the Seabees.
"I chased lizards, spiders and other jungle life out of my sea bag
and discovered you are entirely correct," Martinez wrote Secretary of State Herman H. Dignam.
In fact, he added, it had already expired.
"Some of these days," his letter said, "I will go and see the tribal chieftain of this island and explain matters to him. Perhaps the royal highway commissioner of island X will give me a driver's license for the duration which might be honored in Michigan after the war is over."
"Reciprocity, I think this is called in diplomatic circles. Among us Seabees it's called something else."
"It was nice and friendly of you to notify me of this expiration. All the news we get is about strikes and race riots. Keep things well in hand until we are back."
Martinez' letter was received by Dignam a month after the expiration notice had been written.

gratitude to men and women in the uniforms of Uncle Sam's fighting forces.
They're on duty today at the four corners of the earth and on all the seven seas—
protecting our lives and our way of life.

And we mustn't overlook the splendid job that other men in the uniform of our police forces are doing. Their "zone of operation" may be Ohio rather than the Orient, it may be the highway to the next town rather than the airways across the Atlantic, but their job is fundamentally the same—protecting us and ours.

We Ohioans can indeed be proud of our police organizations —city, county or state. Most of us have few occasions to call upon the service of our police forces
—but that in itself is a tribute to their efficiency. They're on the job day and night whether we need them or not.

Some of us in the Greyhound organization, because of the nature of our work,
have more frequent occasion to cooperate with the police than do many of our fellow citizens of Ohio. For instance, we are in a position to see clearly how much the police of this community, as well as those of neighboring communities, have contributed to the safety and convenience of bus transportation. The aid these men have given in arranging the most practical and satisfactory routes through towns and cities is typical of their skillful handling of all traffic problems.

Greyhound's most important job, as we see it, is to make near and good neighbors
of all the communities that our buses serve in Ohio — and we feel that the able cooperation of police forces throughout the State has made it possible for us to do this job with greater efficiency.

Expulsion of 16 Church Members Is Held Illegal

MOUNT VERNON, Jan. 18.—Expulsion of 16 persons from membership in the Vine Street Church of Christ was declared illegal by the third district court of appeals yesterday in upholding a common pleas court decision that they still were members of the church.

However, the appeals court restrained two of the 16—J. C. Marriott, attorney, and Mrs. Ila McNabb, school teacher—from teaching Sunday school against orders of the church elders. It further ordered the church board to pay costs of the case.

Previously, counsel for the church asserted the board would go to the supreme court if necessary to enforce what it believed its right to expel members.

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The two major parties appear to have ended the squabbling within their own ranks and today the Republicans could confine their pot-shots to the Democrats, the Democrats their brickbats to the GOP.

Apparently the most developed intra-party fight was that conjured up by southern Democrats who had threatened to form a third party. But Dixie-land governors, meeting in Washington to settle differences over freight rate equality, let it be known they're still within the Democratic fold.

The Republican revolt had not been so well-known but freshmen legislators who had been peevish about what they believed was a not-firm-enough opposition to administration programs and policies have apparently been calmed by their veteran colleagues. They have indicated agreement to a proposal of the veterans that Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, be named temporary chairman of the party conference which opens Thursday and Senator White, of Maine be pending return of Minority Senate Leader McNary, of Oregon, who has been ordered by his physicians to take a long rest, following an operation. Senator Wherry, of Nebraska, one of the "freshmen," would serve temporarily as minority whip.

ONE MAN—ONE LETTER

There's still a mystery surrounding the writer of the letter published in the book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie," which predicted Willkie would be the Republican nominee for president this year. Interest has been heightened by introduction of a new figure—an aide of Interior Secretary Ickes. The letter is signed with the name of Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's adviser. Hopkins says it's a forgery. Senator Langer (R-ND) yesterday read into the Congressional Record correspondence purporting to show that a friend of Ickes sent the letter to an aide of Ickes, George N. Briggs. Said Ickes: "I don't know who will ultimately turn out to be the villain in the Hopkins letter thriller, but it will not be I."

$500 TOP

The house military committee is spearheading a drive to put a $300 top on the mustering-out pay a service man or woman will receive upon discharge but there still is strong support for other versions of the program with top pay going as high as $700.

Pedestrians Should Wear White To Avoid Being Hit By Cars, AAA Club Manager Says

Particularly during winter months traffic deaths and injuries involving pedestrians greatly increase. A. F. Morris, manager of the Columbiana County Motor club, said today in announcing that schools this month will feature the idea of pedestrians wearing white at night to protect themselves from being hit.

"To aid teachers, the club will provide posters and carefully-prepared lesson units for teachers, emphasizing the theme, 'We Wear White At Night'." The club manager added. "This is the January poster and supplementary material in the WE WORK FOR VICTORY, TOO series being issued to schools here each month during the 1943-44 school year as the club's contribution to child safety.

"National statistics show that the majority of pedestrians killed meet death after dark. Four out of five killed in traffic lose their lives between 5 p. m. and 1 a. m. The death rate rises sharply after 4:00 and reaches its peak from 6 to 7. During this hazardous hour, children are often permitted to be away from home unaccompanied."

Morris added that during the winter months when hours of daylight are fewest, night fatalities make up two-thirds of average daily total.

OHIO PIG CROP IN 1943 WAS LARGEST

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—Ohio's fall pig crop last year was the largest on record while field crop production fell slightly short of 1942's all-time high, the Ohio Co-operative Crop Reporting service today.

Fall pigs totaled 3,216,000 head, exceeding by 10 per cent the previous record of 2,929,000 raised in the fall of 1942. The crop for all of 1943 was 6,654,000 head, also 10 per cent above the record 1942 crop and 49 per cent above the average for the preceding 10 years.

Despite a slight increase in acreage harvested, the 1943 field crop production was below the record level of 1942, but otherwise probably was the highest on record. Total acreage harvested in 1943 was 19,505,000 compared with 19,245,000 in 1942.

The harvested acreage of corn, soybeans for beans, potatoes and tame hay was larger than in 1942, while a smaller acreage of small grains and sugar beets was harvested. Hay seed acreage was reduced sharply. Yield per acre was lower for all principal crops and soybeans, buckwheat and barley tobacco were the only ones to show higher total production this year than last.

Grandmothers' War Bond League Formed By General's Wife

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Army's chief of staff, thought up, founded and launched "The Grandmothers' War Bond League" today.

Enroute to New York from Washington, she said at a press conference, she decided to launch a league composed of grandmothers of war babies who would start War bond stamp books for her three grandchildren, "all under three years old and all war babies."

Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Mark W. Clark, wife of the Fifth army commander, inaugurated the activities of a doughnut wagon which will tour Manhattan, giving free doughnuts to purchasers of war bonds and stamps.

Mrs. Clark, who has been on a nation-wide Bond tour, told off a recent experience in the mid-west. An old shabbily-dressed farmer approached her and said, "with a twinkle in his eye," he would buy a $5,000 bond in exchange for a kiss.

"I'm from Indiana, and I know you can't always judge a farmer's bankroll by his clothes," Mrs. Clark said. "So I just told him if he would buy a $10,000 bond I would give him a kiss and a hug to boot."

The farmer remarked, "I don't aim to be no piker," the general's wife said, and wrote out check for $10,000.

She said she hugged him and kissed him "and the check was good."

The War Today

capable of preventing it. That is, she will do so unless some outside power stops her.

That brings us up to our main point. What nation, or combination of nations, is going to try to compel the Soviet to withdraw the Red army from the disputed area and abandon its program. Or for that matter, who figures on forcing Russia to change her very positive determination to take back the Baltic States, some strategic bits of Finland, and Bessarabia?

Any effort to solve these problems in such a manner undoubtedly means another war. Without trying to read the mind of the United States government, it strikes me that this thought must be with Secretary Hull as he makes his effort to secure resumption of Russo-Polish diplomatic relations.

If amity can be restored, there may be a chance that Poland and Russia can work out the thing between them—as their own business. That, of course, is the ideal solution.

newspaper Pravda must be remarkably ignorant of British national standards. This is the only excuse we can find for it.

"To the world at large the story carries its refutation on its face," said the Manchester Guardian, "but what is not pleasant is that such slanderous accusation against an Ally should be circulated among the Russian people."

Rumor Circulates

The Daily Express carried no editorial but a political correspondent wrote that the rumor had been making the rounds in various forms since Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden conferred with Turkish representatives at Cairo.

But it was regarded as so fantastic and so obviously intended to make mischief between the Allies that it was ignored," he wrote.

A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said none of today's Moscow newspapers printed the "Cairo rumor" nor did any of them refer to the British foreign office denial. Pravda does not publish on Tuesdays.

BISHOP HOWARD DIES AT COVINGTON

(By Associated Press)

COVINGTON, Ky., Jan. 18—The most Rev. Francis William Howard, 76-year-old spiritual leader of 100,000 Catholics of northern Kentucky and a noted educator, died at 4:30 a. m. today of complications which followed a heart illness suffered seven weeks ago.

He was the second Ohio-born prince of the church to die in the middle west within a week. The most Rev. James J. Hartley, head of the Columbus Catholic diocese, succumbed last Wednesday in Columbus.

Bishop Howard, stricken seven weeks ago, entered St. Elizabeth hospital here, but had recovered sufficiently to resume occupancy of his residence. Then followed a relapse and onset of pneumonia.

Last rites of the church were administered 10 days ago. Bishop Howard, a native of Columbus, O., had been stationed here since July, 1923, and became known widely as organizer of the Catholic Education association.

He was ordained at St. Joseph's cathedral in Columbus June 16, 1891, sang his first mass there five days later, and then was assigned to the Blessed Trinity church at Jackson, O.

Later he took post-graduate work at Columbia university, living with the Paulist fathers, and then returned to Columbus where he organized the Diocesan school board and remained its chairman until his departure for Covington 22 years later.

It was in 1902 that Bishop Howard founded the National Catholic association and, as secretary general, directed its work until 1928, when he became its president.

He was consecrated as bishop of Covington July 15, 1923, and was made an assistant at the pontifical throne Jan. 12, 1929.

James walked some six blocks to the garage where the car had been taken. Near the garage he was attacked by a footpad who knocked James down, stole his wallet and ration stamps and fled. Instead of going on an evangelism tour, James went to a hospital where he was treated and released.
